Management’s Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

The Fund’s Class C class (REICX) produced a total return of +5.03% net of all expenses and fees for the twelve month period ending December 31, 2024. In comparison, the Fund’s benchmark, the MSCI US REIT Index (RMZ) (the “benchmark”), produced a total return of +8.74% over the same period.

2024 FUND PERFORMANCE ATTRIBUTION

An overweight allocation and stock selection within the healthcare sector contributed to the relative performance of the Fund. Stock selection within the sector was driven by the Fund’s investment in American Healthcare REIT (NYSE: AHR), a newly investable REIT after its February 2024 initial public offering.

An underweight allocation to the triple net sector contributed to the Fund’s performance. Triple net has historically been highly correlated to interest rates due to the long term nature of its leases. Thus, it comes as no surprise that the sector was among the bottom performers for the year.

Stock selection in the office sector contributed to the Fund’s relative performance. Notably, Highwoods (NYSE: HIW) was a top three performer in the Fund for 2024 with a total return over +40%.

An overweight allocation to the cell tower sector detracted from relative performance. Cell towers have been the worst performing for the past three years, after also underperforming in 2021 (though at least with positive performance). Earnings expectations from the rollout of 5G have been slashed, and valuation multiples have been hit harder than most other sectors (including office!) as a result of higher interest rates.

An underweight allocation to the regional mall sector detracted from the Fund’s performance. Mall traffic continued to surprise to the upside in 2024, and retailers responded in kind with strong leasing, further helped by a lack of supply.

An underweight allocation to the specialty sector detracted from the Fund’s relative performance. The largest member of the Specialty sector is Iron Mountain (NYSE: IRM), which the Fund did not own. After another strong year by IRM, the company’s earnings multiple is nearing the pure-play data center REITs despite having less than 20% of its revenues from data centers.

While December was a disappointing finish to the year, the high single digit total return in the face of higher interest rates showed that investors are gaining more confidence in the compelling offering of income and growth for REITs. As usual, interest rates are the biggest risk to REIT valuations; however, we believe that low leverage and laddered maturities will minimize the effect on cash flow. As such, we believe that REITs present an attractive risk reward opportunity to complement a diversified portfolio.

Fund Performance

The following graph and chart compare the initial and subsequent account values at the end of each of the most recently completed 10 fiscal years of the Fund, or for the life of the Fund, if shorter. It assumes a $10,000 initial investment at the beginning of the first fiscal year in an appropriate, broad-based securities market index for the same period.

GROWTH OF $10,000

AVERAGE ANNUAL TOTAL RETURN	1 Year	5 Years	10 Years
West Loop Realty Fund (Class C/REICX) ¹	4.10%	2.79%	4.59%
West Loop Realty Fund (Class C/REICX)—excluding sales load	5.03%	2.79%	4.59%
MSCI US REIT Index	8.74%	4.31%	5.66%
S&P 500 Index	25.02%	14.53%	13.10%

¹A Contingent Deferred Sales Charge ("CDSC") of 1.00% may be imposed on certain purchases that are redeemed in whole or in part within 12 months of purchase.

Keep in mind that the Fund's past performance is not a good predictor of how the Fund will perform in the future.

The graph and table do not reflect the deduction of taxes that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions or redemption of Fund shares.
